Lady Bears Softball to Take On Colleyville Heritage Tonight for Area Competition

The Brewer softball team won a tough series against Fort Worth Northside last weekend to claim a bi-district championship and now has its sights set on Colleyville Heritage.

The Bears won the series opener against the Northside, but dropped the second game to the Steers to create a rubber match on Friday night.

Coach Joshua Richards said Northside was tough, but that is exactly what he expected.

“Any time that you are in the playoffs, you expect a competitive series,” Richards said.

“When it's the best two out of three, you just know that each team is going to bring it every inning and every pitch. Northside was very scrappy and feisty—very talented at the plate. Their pitcher was phenomenal. She pitched all three (continued on page 2) games. We knew we had to match that intensity.”

Richards said he had some standout performances in the series.

“Blair Shipman and Karlie Landrum were outstanding in the circle,” Richards said. “Karlie was also phenomenal at the plate. She had four home runs in the series. Mia Serrato also had a couple of home runs and was excellent at the plate. It was just a matter of matching their intensity and then some of our kids having those breakthrough moments, which was big for us, and will help build a lot of confidence going into the next round.”

Brewer will play Colleyville Heritage in the area around on Thursday, May 2.

“We'll push for a best two out of three,” Richards said.

In Track and field, Brewer has three athletes headed to the state meet after a strong showing at region.

Coach Kathi Olson said her team competed well at the regional meet as that girls team placed 15th out of 28 teams overall.

“The team did a great job at Region,” Olson said. “We had to deal with some weather on Saturday for the Finals, but it went well. The 4x400 advanced to the Finals and placed 6th overall. The relay hasn't advanced to the finals before, so that was a big accomplishment and our goal going into Prelims.”

Ki Rendon placed third in the 3200m run and then came back on Saturday in “rainy cold conditions” to win the Region Championship in the 1600m run.

On the boy's side, Desmond Watkins (45-03.00) 2 and Brandon Clark Jr (45-01.00) took first and second place respectively in the triple jump event at region and are headed to state.

Olson said she wants Rendon to concentrate on a couple of areas at the state meet.

“We are focusing on the splits and overall time for the 1600m,” Olson said. “This will be a really good race and very competitive one with the top runners in the State.”

In baseball, the Bears swept its series against Azle last week to wrap up the regular season. Hayden-Ayala Hinojosa threw 7 innings (2H, 1ER, 9Ks) in game two of the series with the Hornets and Jacob Alvarado was 2-4, with a double and RBI.

Brewer finished the season with three straight wins, including one against Justin Northwest.

Birthday Celebration for White Settlement Resident Brings Community Members Together

Alan Price and his wife, Susan.

Several individuals, community dignitaries, friends and family gathered on Friday, April 26 at the Pecan Grove Convention Center to celebrate the 79th birthday of Alan Price. It was a Sock Hop theme where revelers dressed for the event in their '50s apparel.

Alan Price started entertaining people as a DJ in the music industry 52 years ago in the Fort Worth area. He started at Carswell Air Force Base while he was in the Air Force.

He has interviewed thousands of recording artists from Fats Domino, Frankie Avalon, Fabian, Bobby Riedel and countless others on his radio show called Alan's Golden Oldies and can be found at alansgoldenoldies.com. Price has been in the air for 19 years.

Alan has been married to his wife Susan for 28 years, has four children and four grandchildren. He is a City Council member and proud to be a servant to the community of White Settlement.

Light refreshments were served and the hall was decorated appropriately for the theme. The occasion was enjoyed by everyone who attended.

Barbara Donaldson was festively dressed.

Alan Price (center) leads the crowd in a dance.

Carolyn Currie, Marilyn and Mike Tonn participated at the event.

Event Center Manager Ann Elias, City Council Place 5 Gregg Geesa, Ivy with Alan Price and Mayor Faron Young.

Department Commissions Specialty Badge and Patch for Autism Awareness

To highlight April as Autism Awareness Month, the White Settlement Police Department commissioned a specialty badge and patch to raise awareness and increase understanding and acceptance of people with autism and other developmental disabilities.

Officers had the option to wear the badge during the month of April.

The patch was designed by officers and employees who have loved ones or have experience in dealing with individuals with autism or autism spectrum disorder (ASD), which refers to a broad range of conditions characterized by challenges with social skills, repetitive behaviors, speech, and nonverbal communication.

According to the Centers for Disease Control, autism affects an estimated 1 in 36 children and 1 in 45 adults in the United States.

In September 2022, the White Settlement Police Department launched an innovative program, "Take Me Home," which allows parents and family members to register their loved ones with the agency who have autism, ASD, developmental disabilities, or diminished intellectual abilities. By registering a loved one, officers can readily identify a missing child or person to reunite them with family members. To date, several community members have participated in this program.

To register your loved one, child or adult, contact Corporal Laura Gonzalez at lgonzalez@wspd.us.

Spanish Military Leader, Bernardo de Galvez by Dr. Ken Bridges

The Revolutionary War found the American colonies in a desperate struggle for independence against one of the great superpowers of the eighteenth century, the British Empire. America found help in unexpected places. What turned out to be some of its most important foreign aid came from half a continent away from a largely unknown provincial Spanish governor, Bernardo de Galvez. Galvez served as governor of Spanish Louisiana, an area that at the time included Texas.

Bernardo de Galvez was born in a small mountain village on the southern tip of Spain in 1746. His father was a respected officer in the Spanish army. The younger Galvez began his military career at the age of 16 during the Seven Years War in the Spanish attack on neighboring Portugal. He earned the rank of lieutenant and was sent to what is now the American Southwest shortly afterward and fought in many battles with the different Native American tribes the Spanish were trying to subjugate. He was injured many times and cited for his bravery, rising to the rank of captain while still in his teens.

He returned to Spain in 1772. He took a number of assignments, including serving as an instructor at a military academy before returning to the New World and rose through the ranks. In 1777, Galvez, just 31, was named governor of Spanish Louisiana.

The sprawling territory, which included Louisiana, large portions of East Texas and the Red River Valley, and lands all the way to the Dakotas and the Rocky Mountains, were under his command.

The American Revolution erupted two years prior to Galvez becoming governor. A British defeat would take immense pressure off the Spanish in North America. However, the delicate diplomatic situation between Spain and Great Britain prevented him from taking any overt action. Nevertheless, he devised a plan to aid the colonists anyway. In 1777, he quietly pulled together supplies and sent them up the Mississippi River to the Ohio River and from there to Pennsylvania. He sent weapons, medical supplies, and uniform materials worth more than $2 million in 2024 dollars to a grateful Continental Army.

In 1778, a group of American refugees came to Galvez seeking land and founded Galveztown in Southeast Louisiana. Galvez began sending troops and colonists to the area in hopes of transforming the area in a Spanish military base against British intrigues in Spanish Florida. By August 1779, Spain was at war with England, and it was Galvez's job to oversee the defense of Spanish interests in the region.

While there would be clashes between Spanish and English land forces, Galvez realized the bulk of the fighting would be naval battles in the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean Sea. English naval supremacy prevented many supplies from reaching the colonies. By contrast, the American navy, though staffed with spirited men, consisted of only a handful of ships and was too small to cause any significant damage to the huge British fleet. However, France and Spain, with their large fleets, proved to be a much more even match.

In late 1779, a message to British forces in Jamaica was intercepted by the Spanish, and Galvez prepared Louisiana for an attack. His forces deflected a British force at Baton Rouge in 1779. He sent the Spanish fleet to attack British ports and ships in the region. Slowly, he wore down the British advantage, allowing much needed supplies to reach the Americans. Galvez was preparing to press the advantage of the Spanish with an invasion of British Jamaica when word came that the war had ended. George Washington himself extended his lavish praise to Galvez in his role in the long war for American freedom.

With the fighting over by 1782, Galvez represented Spain in the treaty negotiations in Paris to formalize the end of the war. He worked closely with his American counterpart, Ben Franklin, to help secure the new nation's strategic interests while regaining Florida for Spain. The Treaty of Paris was formally approved in 1783.

In 1785, he was appointed viceroy of New Spain by King Charles III. New Spain included all of Spain's imperial possessions in North America and the Caribbean Sea, from Panama to California to Florida. As viceroy, Galvez was second only to the king in all matters relating to North America.

He fell ill and died in Mexico City in November 1786 at the age of 40. Statues honoring him were later placed in New Orleans, Washington, DC, and Mobile, Alabama. Galveston was named for him when it was founded as a Mexican port in 1825.

Congress named him as an honorary American citizen in 2014.
