Western Hills Class of 1971 50th Reunion

Get "Texas Ready" for Natural and Manmade Disasters

The Western Hills High School classmates of 1971 are having their 50th class reunion this fall.

There will be an icebreaker event on Thursday, Sept. 30 from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. with a fajita buffet.

There will be a dinner and dance on Friday, Oct. 1 from 6 to 10 p.m. at the Ridglea Country Club located at 3700 Bernie Anderson Ave in Fort Worth.

The cost is $150 per person if paid by July 31, and $170 if paid by Sept. 7 (last purchase date).

Make check or money order payable to: Western Hills Class of 1971 50 Year Reunion; and mail to: PO Box 1621, Fort Worth, TX 76097.

The Texas Department of State Health Services is urging everyone to get ahead of what's ahead by being Texas Ready for natural and manmade disasters. The new preparedness effort highlights the importance of three simple steps: be informed, make a plan, build a kit.

With summer and hurricane season heating up, now is the time to make sure you and your household have what you need to survive on your own for at least three days and know where you'll go if you need to evacuate.

No matter the threat, planning and preparation will help ensure that you, your community and Texas can weather whatever strikes the state.

Be Informed

Be aware of the possible hazards that could affect your area. Stay in tune with weather watches and warnings. Monitor reputable sources of information. Heed the advice of local and state leaders in an emergency.

Make a Plan

Gather the members of your household to create a plan together. Decide what you'll do if you need to shelter in your home and where you'll go and how to get there in case of an evacuation. Know how you'll stay in contact. Don't forget to plan for pets. Write it all down and practice.

Build a Kit

Create a disaster supply kit that will last at least three days with things like food that doesn't require cooking, one gallon of water per person per day, a battery or crank-powered radio, backup batteries, a first aid kit, and any necessary medical, baby or pet supplies. Store copies of important documents in a water-proof container you can take with you, including identification, medications and copies of prescriptions, vehicle titles, and insurance and bank information.

Find additional tips, an emergency plan template, disaster kit checklist and other resources at www.txready.org.

Tarrant Area Food Bank to hold Mega Mobile Market Friday

The Tarrant Area Food Bank (TAFB) has extended their agreement with Fort Worth ISD to hold Mega Mobile Markets at Herman Clark Stadium through the month of August. This will allow Tarrant area families to continually receive food assistance from this location, one of TAFB's most consistent distribution locations of the past year.

Mega Mobile Markets are designed to serve all residents of the Tarrant area who are in need of food assistance, as well as anyone whose access to nutritious food has been affected by hardships, such as the COVID-19 pandemic.

TAFB will hold the Mega Mobile Markets on the following Fridays, from 9 a.m. to noon at Herman Clark Stadium-5201 CA Roberson Blvd, Fort Worth, TX 76119 on the following dates: July 9, July 16, July 23, July 30, Aug. 6, Aug. 13, Aug. 20 and Aug. 27.

Food insecurity is still an issue that many families in the Tarrant area are facing. During the pandemic, TAFB saw a 60 percent increase in the number of families who relied on food bank services for the first time. Because of this, many families are still recovering from the effects of COVID-19.

Extreme Heat Guidelines

Extreme heat often results in the highest number of annual deaths among all weather-related hazards. In most of the United States, extreme heat is defined as a long period (two to three days) of high heat and humidity with temperatures above 90 degrees. In extreme heat, evaporation is slowed and the body must work extra hard to maintain a normal temperature. This can lead to death by overworking the human body.

Remember that:

- Extreme heat can occur quickly and without warning.
- Older adults, children, and sick or overweight individuals are at greater risk from extreme heat.
- Humidity increases the feeling of heat as measured by a heat index.

If you are under an extreme heat warning:

- Find air conditioning.
- Avoid strenuous activities.
- Watch for heat illness.
- Wear light clothing.
- Check on family members and neighbors.
- Drink plenty of fluids.
- Watch for heat cramps, heat exhaustion and heat stroke.
- Never leave people or pets in a closed car.

How to stay safe when extreme heat threatens: prepare now. Find places in your community where you can go to get cool.

Keep your home cool by doing the following:

- Cover windows with drapes or shades.
- Weather-strip doors and windows.
- Use window reflectors, such as aluminum foil-covered cardboard, to reflect heat back outside.
- Add insulation to keep the heat out.
- Use attic fans to clear hot air.
- Install window air conditioners and insulate around them.
- Learn to recognize the signs of heat-related illness.

Be safe during the extreme heat event:

- Never leave a child, adult or animal alone inside a vehicle on a warm day.
- Find places with air conditioning. Libraries, shopping malls, and community centers can provide a cool place to take a break from the heat.
- If you're outside, find shade. Wear a hat wide enough to protect your face.
- Wear loose, lightweight, light-colored clothing.
- Drink plenty of fluids to stay hydrated. If you or someone you care for is on a special diet, ask a doctor how best to accommodate it.
- Do not use electric fans when the temperature outside is more than 95 degrees, as this could increase the risk of heat-related illness. Fans create air flow and a false sense of comfort, but do not reduce body temperature.

- Avoid high-energy activities.
- Check yourself, family members, and neighbors for signs of heat-related illness.

Recognize and respond - Know the signs of heat-related illness and the ways to respond to it:

- Heat cramps:
 - Signs: Muscle pains or spasms in the stomach, arms or legs
 - Actions: Go to a cooler location. Remove excess clothing. Take sips of cool sports drinks with salt and sugar. Get medical help if cramps last more than an hour.
- Heat exhaustion:
 - Signs: Heavy sweating, paleness, muscle cramps, tiredness, weakness, dizziness, headache, nausea or vomiting, or fainting.
 - Actions: Go to an air-conditioned place and lie down. Loosen or remove clothing. Take a cool bath. Take sips of cool sports drinks with salt and sugar. Get medical help if symptoms get worse or last more than an hour.
- Heat stroke:
 - Signs: Extremely high body temperature (above 103 degrees) taken orally; red, hot, and dry skin with no sweat; rapid, strong pulse; dizziness; confusion; or unconsciousness
 - Actions: Call 911 or get the person to a hospital immediately. Cool down with whatever methods are available until medical help arrives.

Texas History Minute

Texas Politician, Henry B. Gonzalez by Dr. Ken Bridges

Henry B. Gonzalez had a long and controversial career as a Texas politician. He was the first Hispanic elected to Congress from Texas and was never afraid to speak his mind on the issues.

Gonzalez was born to immigrant parents in San Antonio in 1916. His parents arrived in Texas, fleeing the violence of the Mexican Revolution. His father rose to become an editor of a local Spanish-language newspaper and started a successful translation service.

Gonzalez graduated from San Antonio Junior College in 1937 and briefly attended the University of Texas. While he attended college, he married Bertha Cuellar, and the two had eight children together.

He completed his bachelors degree at St. Mary's University in Austin where he also earned a law degree by 1943.

After graduation, he briefly worked as a probation officer, quickly rising to lead the Bexar County office. He also worked as a teacher for a short period.

In 1952, he was elected to the San Antonio city council where he pushed to end segregation at city parks and swimming pools.

He soon aimed for higher office. In 1956, he was elected to the state senate. While a state senator, he became an outspoken defender of civil rights as he filibustered a bill that would have allowed the state to close schools that faced any disturbances related to racial integration and defeated other bills attempting to enforce segregation.

In 1958, Gonzalez ran for governor, losing the primary but winning re-election to the state senate in 1960. In 1961, after Lyndon B. Johnson became vice-president, Gonzalez ran for his open U. S. Senate seat. In a field of 50 candidates, he placed sixth statewide with 9 percent of the vote, carrying Bexar County.

Later that year, San Antonio's longtime congressman, Paul Kilday, resigned in order to take a position on the Court of Military Appeals. Gonzalez quickly jumped into the race to fill the remainder of the term. In a hard-fought election, Gonzalez prevailed with 55 percent of the vote.

He went to work immediately. On the same day he was sworn into office, he filed a bill banning the poll tax, through which many states required citizens to pay to exercise their right to vote. The poll tax was banned by the Twenty-Fourth Amendment, which was ratified in 1964. He continued to be an outspoken advocate of the civil rights acts of the 1960s as well as federal funding for education and anti-poverty programs.

One of his most well-publicized actions was his service as chairman of the Select Committee on Assassination in 1977. This committee was pushed by Gonzalez in 1976 to study the assassinations of President John F. Kennedy, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, and the Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. Behind the scenes, the committee quickly erupted into acrimony over disputes stemming from investigative techniques, committee procedures, and even the budget.

Gonzalez himself had been in the motorcade in Dallas in 1963 when President Kennedy was assassinated. He resigned from the committee within a few months, while the committee ultimately concluded that no conspiracy was apparent with the murders.

His harsh criticisms of political opponents did not win him many allies at the Capitol, but he eventually became the chairman of the House Banking, Finance, and Urban Affairs Committee in 1989. Here, he advocated banking reforms to make it easier for the working poor to afford their own homes. He criticized deregulation attempts that resulted in the collapse of the savings and loan industry in the late 1980s which ultimately cost taxpayers more than $1 trillion. He chaired the committee until 1994.

In 1998, as his health failed, he announced his retirement. His son, Charlie Gonzalez, won the race to succeed him. He died on November 8, 2000, but has since been widely honored for his service to Texas and the nation as the convention center in San Antonio was named for him in addition to four different elementary schools across the state, including in Dallas and Eagle Pass.
