Brewer Bears and Lady Bears Prepare for District Games

The Brewer football team came up just short last Thursday night in a game coach Jason Wheeler said he believes his team could have won.

Brewer lost 34-27 to Frisco Wakeland, and Wheeler said the loss to the Wolverines was a bit of a tough pill to swallow.

"It was a kind of a mixed bag," Wheeler said. "We played a good team, and we felt like we could play with them and beat them. Take away the first two minutes of the football game, and we do beat them."

The Bears got down 15-0 in the first two minutes, and ended up losing 34-27.

Wheeler said he team did an excellent job in one part of the game in particular against Wakeland.

"We ran the ball very, very well," Wheeler said.

Jordan Clark was 11-15 passing for 103 yards and rushed for 87 yards, while Jaden Garrett rushed for 100 yards in the game, and freshman Jovan Sparkman had 10 carries for 62 yards.

Wheeler said he also had a stand out performance in the special teams.

"JP Simpkins is a threat in the return game," Wheeler said. "This week he had two punt returns for 75 yards. Both returns set up scores for us."

Defensively, Dakories Moment had six tackles, including two for loss, and a pass break up in the game against Wakeland.

Brewer is in its bye week this coming weekend, and after wrapping up the non-district schedule, Wheeler said he believes his team is in a good spot for the start of district competition.

"Non-district gave us the opportunity to grow up," Wheeler said. "Obviously we would have liked to win. But watching the kids gain maturity, to face adversity and have the confidence to continue to play hard when things aren't going their way...the ability to do their job without freaking out in tough situations is a real big deal."

District starts for Brewer on Sept. 15 against Northwest.

On the court, Brewer lost it's game against Godley last Friday, and coach Jill Barkey said there were some missed opportunities.

"We're still really focused on our mental game," Barkey said. "We were up in the second and third set for most of the game and just couldn't finish. The girls continue to strive to improve."

Barkey said she had a notable performances in the game.

"Nayvoni Saenz (junior libero) was the standout of the night," Barkey said. "Her ability to read another team's offense is quite impressive."

With the non-district schedule under it's belt, Brewer will open up district competition tomorrow night.

Barkey said she feels like the non-district did a good job of preparing her team for district competition. (continued on page 4)

TAFB Returns to Herman Clark Memorial Stadium With a Mega Mobile Event Sept. 8

Tarrant Area Food Bank (TAFB), the primary distribution source of donated food for hunger-relief partner agencies and feeding programs in 13 counties, including Tarrant County, teamed up with Hello Fresh just two years ago to begin handing out their Meals With Meaning kits to those in need at the mega mobile events.

This meal kit company will celebrate a milestone when they hand out their One-Millionth Meals With Meaning meal kit on Friday, Sept. 8 at Herman Clark Memorial Stadium, located at 5201 Ca Roberson Blvd., Fort Worth, TX, 76119, from 8 to 10 a.m.

The site is home of TAFB’s first mega mobile event during the pandemic and where the first Hello Fresh meal kit was handed out to those facing food insecurity in Tarrant County. The Hello Fresh employees from their local DFW distribution center will also volunteer their time to load meal kits into cars, along with Standard Meat Company employees of the locally owned organization who are providing the protein for the meal kits.

“I think we had a great mix of competitive teams and confidence builders,” Barkey said. “I look forward to seeing how we handle district pressure.”

Brewer will play Wichita Falls Rider tomorrow evening and Barkey expects a tough match.

“I know Rider will be fighting for every game this season since it's their last,” Barkey said. “We're gonna bring our A game and play above the line.”

On the trails, the Brewer cross country team competed in the Fossil Ridge Run of the Panther and coach Kathi Olson said “we made some improvements this week that are part of our weekly progression for this season.”

Ki Rendon placed second followed by Kailee Carr and Jade Reyes.

On the boys’ side, freshman Adrian Gonzales led the way, running a new PR of 19:14 followed by Alex Vega and Vontez Castillo.

Brewer will compete in the Galveston Island Beach Run at East Beach Pavilion and Olson said, “We are excited about running a new course and meet. Our goals are to continue with improving our weekly progressions. We are half way through the season following this week. The District Meet is five weeks away; focus and progression to reach our goals is what we are currently emphasizing.”

Suicide Prevention and Awareness Week Sept. 11-15

Suicide is the second leading cause of death for ages 10 to 24. According to the Centers for Disease Control (CDC), the rate of suicide has increased by 30 percent nationally in recent years. In Tarrant County, the suicide rate is 55 percent higher.

WSISD believes that educating staff, students, families and the community is imperative to ensuring that this statistic decreases. As a district, we train our staff to identify students who may be at risk for suicide, refer students to counselors, and work with parents to provide support for students.

WSISD is dedicated to reducing the frequency of suicide attempts through awareness activities and prevention education. WSISD HOPE Squads organize activities throughout the year that promote hope and educate the community regarding suicide prevention and mental health awareness.

21st Governor of Texas - Charles A. Culberson by Dr. Ken Bridges

Charles Culberson was part of an influential Texas political family. He would lead a notable career in his own right, serving two terms as governor and three terms in the U. S. Senate.

Culberson was born in June 1855 in eastern Alabama. Shortly after he was born, his ambitious father, David B. Culberson, moved the family to Texas and set up a law firm in Upshur County and was a state legislator by 1858 and later a United States Congressman from 1875 to 1897.

Culberson graduated from the prestigious Virginia Military Institute in 1874 and earned a law degree from the University of Virginia in 1877. He served as an attorney in Jefferson in East Texas for several years before moving to Dallas in 1887.

In 1890, Culberson made his first run for political office, announcing his candidacy for attorney general. His father's influence as a congressman helped Culberson gain the political traction he needed. As a result, Culberson won the election handily.

Like his predecessor, Jim Hogg, who had since risen to become governor, Culberson attacked the corruption in the railroad industry and the price-fixing practices many railroads used to hurt farmers shipping their crops to market. His popularity by 1894 propelled him to the governorship as well.

As governor, Culberson enacted a number of reforms, just as Hogg had done in the previous four years. He signed laws aimed at combatting monopolies in the state, made modest changes in the judicial system, and gave new powers to the recently formed Railroad Commission in their efforts to regulate railroad practices.

Just as Culberson's second term as governor was ending in 1899, the new state legislature voted to make him the new U.S. Senator from Texas.

He became an influential member of the Senate. He ultimately served as chairman of four different committees in his twenty-four year Senate career. Additionally, for two years starting in 1907, he headed the Senate Democratic caucus.

For six years, Culberson served as chairman of the powerful Senate Judiciary Committee, which oversaw the Senate's considerations of presidential nominations for federal judges. His committee approved four nominees to the Supreme Court for consideration by the full Senate, including Attorney General James McReynolds in 1914 and Louis Brandeis, the first Jew to serve on the Supreme Court.

That year, Culberson himself faced re-election to the Senate and had to face the voters directly instead of the election held in the state legislature, thanks to 1913 ratification of the Seventeenth Amendment he had supported. Culberson won easily, as he had in most elections so far.

Although Democrats were unable to regain control of the Senate in the 1920 election, Culberson still was able to chair a committee, given his seniority and respect among his fellow Senators. He chaired the Committee on Private Land Claims, a small committee devoted to settling land disputes on property bought from the federal government.

At the same, he was facing another issue. Culberson was disgusted by the tactics, corruption, and violence of the Ku Klux Klan, which was rising quickly throughout the nation in the years following World War I. He spoke out against the KKK on several occasions, but Culberson's political influence was gradually receding.

Culberson's alcoholism continued to take its toll on him. He grew ill, unable to concentrate on many issues, and he neglected many duties to his constituents in Texas. Constituent service became even more important as the Senate was now elected by the general public rather than state legislators.

In 1922, he faced re-election but was unable to campaign. The KKK threw everything it had into Railroad Commissioner Earle B. Mayfield, who managed to oust the four-term Senator.

After Culberson's term ended in January 1923, he stayed in Washington, DC, in general seclusion during his retirement, his health steadily declining. He died in 1925.
